Have you been injured by a hit and run?

What if the Negligent Party is Uninsured or Runs Away?

If you or a loved one is in an accident caused by the negligent actions of another driver, that driver's insurance is often the first place you must look to recover for your injuries. However, where do you look if the at-fault driver does not have automobile insurance? How do you recover if the at-fault party flees the scene? Who is responsible to pay for your medical bills? Who is responsible for your injuries?

In Illinois there is a concept known as Uninsured Automobile Insurance. This insurance is intended to protect those individuals who are injured by the fault of another, if the at-fault person does not carry insurance or if the at-fault party hits you and runs.
